

The clock is ticking, but... time is on my side.

The Rolling Stones had it right, at least when it comes to STATIS, Datatrak's Shipment Tracking and Tracing Information System. It's about getting time on your side and making the most of technology to do it.

The competition is out there, and working hard to land your customers and keep you from growing your business. Air freight trucking and expedited freight companies are being asked to do more and more by their customers, and reliance on technology is the only way to accomplish this without adding expensive personnel costs. So, how do you get time on your side? Read on to find out how to get time on your side. It's all about time in this industry – real-time, that is.

In existence since 1977, Datatrak brings years of transportation industry expertise to its STATIS product. More expedited delivery companies rely on STATIS software to increase operating efficiencies and improve customer service than any other solution available. STATIS is deployed as a hosted service, which means even the smallest companies can reap big rewards. There's no need to invest in servers or hardware – as long as you have a high-speed Internet connection, you have access to STATIS, no matter where you're physically located. Have more than one office, or have the need to work from home? With STATIS, it's all possible, and time is on your side!

Pull-down menus, pop-up windows and on-screen help make STATIS easy to learn and use. It can also be tailored to meet your specific business requirements so you don't have to change your operations and processes to match the system. Our Implementation Group works with you to set up your data, tailor the program to your needs, and take you through the big "Go-live" day with an implementation analyst on-site with you. Isn't it time you felt comfortable with your software application?

How it works

STATIS addresses every step of the delivery process from order entry to invoicing. Its modular design easily adapts to existing systems and provides integration with EDI, wireless communications and other leading technologies. All of the STATIS programs are fully integrated so you only enter the data once and follow it through the entire life cycle. STATIS software leads the industry with basic capabilities that include:

- Order entry
- Billing/EDI
- Dispatch
- Accounts payable
- Automatic rating/pricing
- Accounts receivable and collections
- Scheduled job processing
- Manifesting of pickup, linehaul or delivery segments
- Driver pay and expenses
- POD notification via email or fax
- Sales analysis
- Custom forms

Many air freight truckers offer extensive linehaul services, and STATIS offers an optional Linehaul module to track and plan for linehaul work. With detailed Load Planning and Manifest monitoring programs, the linehaul business doesn't have to be a guessing game. The module includes extensive costing and route analysis report capabilities to help you determine if a linehaul route is profitable. Designed in conjunction with several linehaul companies, the program is flexible enough to meet your needs, however involved your linehaul business may be.

Optional modules include:

- Wireless eTrac for dispatching via cell phones in real-time
- eTrac so your customers can create and track orders online and communicate with your business partners in real-time
- Reporting Database for custom-tailored analysis of your business in real-time
- GeoTrac, Datatrak's GPS tracking system for cell phones, for tracking your assets wherever they are
